

Market Update – May 2011

The Tunisian Foreign Investment Promotion Agency will be holding its first international economic event following the ouster of former President Ben Ali. The Tunisia Investment Forum, which is to take place in June 16 and 17, will provide investors with a broad overview of Tunisian policies that aim to foster foreign direct investment. Investors will also have the opportunity to participate in workshops highlighting opportunities in rural development in the southern and western regions of the country. The Tunisia Investment Forum will also provide informal networking opportunities for companies seeking local partners. The event will take place immediately following the Logistics and Infrastructure Conference, June 14-15; the Tunis Med Industrie trade show, June 15-17; and the International Conference on Energy Efficiency and Low Carbon Intensity, June 16, all of which will take place in Tunis.

You can learn more about the Tunisian Tunisia Investment Forum and register for the event by visiting <http://www.tunisiainvestmentforum.tn>.